

NEW VEGETABLES ARRIVE IN CITY

Wide Variety from Which to Select—Eggs Down to 25 Cents.

Many shipments of new vegetables are being received here as a result of the heavy movement in Chicago markets. Chicago dealers say these heavy shipments are offsetting losses in the movement of spring fruits from the south.

Among the new spring vegetables here are cucumbers, head and leaf lettuce, onions, green and red peppers, cauliflower, celery, rhubarb and spinach. Grocers receive fresh supplies of vegetables and fruits two to three times a week. Cucumbers are selling for 30 cents each for large ones; tomatoes for 20 cents a pound; head lettuce for 15 and 20 cents per head; leaf lettuce, 35 cents a pound; green onions, 10 cents a bunch; radishes, 15 cents a bunch; a bunch of green beans, 15 cents; green peppers, 8 and 10 cents each; cauliflower, 20 cents and up; celery, 15, 18 and 20 cents per large stalk; rhubarb, 25 and 30 cents per pound; and spinach, 15 cents a pound. Most of these prices are the same as they were last week.

Eggs at a Quarter.

Other articles in the vegetable market sell as follows:

New cabbage, 12 and 8 cents a pound, and exceptionally good; beans, new, 15 cents per bushel; Mexican onions, 18 cents a pound; cranberries, 25-40 cents per bushel; and potatoes, 25 and 40 cents per bushel.

Eggs continue to drop and can now be obtained, strictly fresh, for 25 cents per dozen. Butter has advanced a little, the lowest price now being 20 cents against the 25 cents of last week. Different brands bring higher prices.

Several new shipments of extra-grade and good grapefruit make that article the feature in the fruit market. Some selling for a shilling and 45 cents each, are the largest seen here this winter, and are ripe and heavy with juice. Apples remain practically the same, and will last but a few weeks more for all but the extra fancy. Strawberries continue to hold their price of 75 cents a quart. Pineapples at 40 and 25 cents each are being appearing, as the season is almost over. Oranges remain at 40, 50 and 60 cents a dozen, lemons at 40 cents a pound. Cocoanuts sell for 14-20 cents each.

Speed Limits To Order

Perhaps it is entirely a natural and human tendency to regulate our pace by the progress of others—to accept, universal habit and precedent as definite limits to our own rate of speed. All the same, if more people would boldly disregard the comfortable speed limits of the crowd, and permit no regulation except the capacity of their own motors, they might surprise both themselves and others.

"I deserve no credit," declared Napoleon, "except for not believing the fools who said it could not be done."

Ways and means for progress through service at this store are not restricted by precedent. We make our own speed limits.

18 SCALES FIXED, 12 ARE CONDEMNED

February was a busy month for City Sealer Glenn G. Snyder with a total of 172 inspections made. Eighteen measures and scales were found incorrect and were adjusted, while 12 were condemned outright. The balance, 142, were found correct. In the report of her first month's work as visiting nurse, Miss Hulda Andreas lists 87 visits to 13 homes and 11 interviews. She reports 46 hours spent in homes and 29 hours in her office.

THREE WOMEN DIE IN WAUPUN BLAZE

Many were in the building, a two story frame and stucco structure covering about a block and a half exclusive of the warehouse in connection, at the time of the explosion, and in less than five minutes the whole factory was a mass of flames, through which the employees rushed to safety—with the exception of the three women.

Saved Husband of Victim

Firemen from Fond du Lac rescued Howard Carney, husband of one of the fire victims, from the second story of the Shaler plant. The fire completely destroyed the building and extended to the plant of the Althouse-Wheeler company, across the street. The foundry of the latter company is a total loss. Flames burning out from the burning buildings destroyed a warehouse in connection with the plant of the Shaler company.

The conflagration, which is the greatest in the history of Fond du Lac county, started on the second floor of the Shaler plant.

Waupun's fire fighting apparatus was helpless and hurry calls were sent to Oshkosh, Fond du Lac and Beaver Dam. These cities answered immediately and about a hundred regular firemen, together with hundreds of volunteers, fought to prevent a spread of the flames.

Residences for three blocks around were caught in the conflagration, many of them being badly burned.

Hundreds of men will be thrown out of work as a result of the fire. The plant was nationally known for its manufacture of automobile tire vulcanizing equipment and for automobile headlight lenses.

The escape of the great majority of the employees, despite the fact that there were plenty of exits, and the access to them was adequate, is thought almost a miracle by Chief of Police Floyd Gray.

The manufacturing plant of the Althouse-Wheeler company, which adjoined the Shaler factory, was damaged extensively by the flames, and the Tom Nichols residence, occupied by Mrs. B. Beucus and her two small children, was destroyed, the family losing all its possessions, and barely escaping.

Cause of Fire Unknown

"We have not the slightest idea what could have caused the explosion, which several of our employees claim to have heard distinctly," said Mr. Dunlap. "There was, so far as we know, no oil or explosive material, and nothing inflammable in the punch press room, or in that part of the factory."

The damage to the vulcanizing plant and the umbrella factory, which we owned, and which adjoined the plant, is approximately $300,000.

Of the three girl victims, Mrs.

Emma Michaels was a divorcee. Mrs. Howard Carney was the wife of an employee of the company, who was rescued by firemen, and the third member of the trio was living at home with her parents.

There were no injured among the 300 or more fire fighters, as was at first reported, nor were any other factory employees injured.

WHO WILL TAKE MC GOWAN'S JOB?

Speculation Over Successor to Chairmanship of County Board.

With the county board meeting in April there is speculation in Rock county as to who will be the next chairman, succeeding E. D. McGowan, Janesville. Under the unwritten law of the supervisors the next chairman will be from the villages or townships, the last chairman being from a city.

Under rules adopted, the new chairman will only hold office for one year. This rule was adopted so as to pass the office around yearly instead of every two years. W. W. Dalton, Clinton, who was vice chairman, is being mentioned. It is also being mentioned that the office of McGowan is on the important highway committee and it is considered doubtful if he would sacrifice this committee position for even the chairmanship of the county board. It is also being given consideration. Thus far there is no definite information as to who will have the right-of-way to the chairmanship job by popular agreement before the meeting starts on April 4.

C. C. LUNCHEON WILL BE FARMER'S MEETING

MAN IS FOUND AFTER SEARCH OF 19 YEARS

Chicago—A 19 year search for a missing man, which covered Europe, Asia and Australia and twice crossed the Atlantic into America, was ended Friday when Mrs. Ida Shapiro of Chicago was notified that her cousin, Bernard Friedman, had been located in New York. Friedman, when 12 years old, wandered away from his home in Lund, Sweden, according to Mrs. Shapiro. His parents spent large sums of money in an effort to trace him, but after years of unsuccessful search, they gave up. Mrs. Shapiro followed the trail through Europe into Asia and then to Australia. Ten years ago, Mrs. Shapiro came to America and married. An advertisement in a New York newspaper finally led Friedman to a younger sister.

LAY CORNERSTONE OF H. S. IN MARCH

Public Ceremony Planned at New School Building This Month.

The cornerstone and material for the front entrance to the new Janesville high school was received this week and unloaded Friday by Contractors J. P. Cullen & Son. It is expected there will be a public ceremony for the laying of the corner stone late this month.

The brick partition work in the basement floor is about complete. Once this work is finished the masons will be employed in laying facing brick. Plumbing contractors are expected to start work in the basement at the first opportunity when the frost leaves the ground. The steel and girder work for the gymnasium has been received and part of the trestle work for the main auditorium is now ready for erection. In the opinion of the board of education members the construction work will be completed in time for the opening of school next fall.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

George Morton goes to work at the house of Plator, a rich man, when his father loses all his property—a livery business. George becomes a horse trainer and as a part of the job acts as groom to Sylvia Plator when she rides. Sylvia is thrown from her horse and thinking her unconscious, George kisses her, calling out to her. She wakes up and drives him from the house. He seeks an education, goes to Princeton, meets Dally, a tutor, gets a place on the football team and aids his college to win from Harvard. He meets many acquaintances, who have determined that Sylvia Plator shall marry him and meet him at a certain time, each time seemingly widening the breach between them. But he continues in the determination. Betty Allison, a girl from his home town, meets her friend, Sylvia, which is embarrassing. George makes a success and in college acquires a high social position. But Sylvia still flouts him. She goes to work for a man who proves to be a scoundrel. Dallymore, George goes to training camp and says that he will see Sylvia before sailing to fight overseas.

"Lambert," she called. Her voice did not suggest flight or fear. She was calm. Looking at her she could understand how much her control had cost her expression was that of the girl Sylvia, filled with indignity, although it appeared to tell him that if he had ever advanced toward her at all, he had just now forced himself back to his own side of the vast space dividing them.

"Don't be a fool," he whispered. "I could take it, but you have to give it." Her lips were pressed tight as if in a defense against the possible approach of his. They both heard a quick step outside. He let her arms go, and turned to the door where Dallymore stood, unquestionably footed to the ground. He frowned at this picture which might have suggested to him a real intimacy between George Morton and Sylvia Plator. Lambert's gaze on with Betty and the other. What's up?"

Sylvia's voice wasn't quite steady. "The Major can't leave the area. I want somebody to take me to Officers' House."

George nodded. He had quite recovered his control, and he knew he had to do it. There was nothing more to be done. The thought of the doubtful days ahead was like a great burden on his soul.

"I've one more word for the Major," she said at the door, muttering Dallymore on.

George went close to her. "It's only this," she said. "I'm sorry it had to come at the last minute."

He laughed shortly. "It was the last minute that made it. I'm not sorry."

Her face twisted passionately, as if she were on the point of angry tears. "I hope I will never see you again. Do you understand that?"

"Quite," he said, dryly. "To George as going to the war?"

"It didn't mean just that," she cried, angrily.

"It's your only chance," he said. "And I can understand how you can wish it shouldn't come back."

"Don't count too heavily on it," he said.

"I'll be there," she said, and he knew that she meant it.

"URUMPH, URUMPH"—FROM WHERE

Of course there are many beautiful things in the jungles but no Elephant had ever seen such a wonderful thing as the Magic Basket and the Creature Of The King's Desire. It was a really and truly great sight, for the basket that Elephant had made for the King was the best he had ever made for any little fellow. He made it very good to the folks of the Forest and deserved the best. And of course, the King wanted his Creature to look the best ever if Mr. Elephant was to see her, and I want to say the Creature Of The King's Desire never was so beautiful before as when the Elephant of the Jungles looked upon her.

"Urumph," said Johnny Elephant. "Urumph, Urumph," said Mrs. Elephant. "Urumph, Urumph, Urumph," said Tim the little Elephant. "Is that where you live?"

"That is the Creature that lifts you from the ground," said Tinker. "All right," said Tim. "I'll go to see her."

"Shoot at will!" shouted the director. The rattle of blank musketry filled the air.

"It's only this," she said. "I'm sorry it had to come at the last minute."

He laughed shortly. "It was the last minute that made it. I'm not sorry."

Her face twisted passionately, as if she were on the point of angry tears. "I hope I will never see you again. Do you understand that?"

BEAUTY CHATS

by Edna Kent Forbes

TRINKETS. The market has been flooded recently with the most astounding amount of cheap imitation jewelry. When I say cheap I do not mean cheap in price, for many of the so-called fashionable trinkets cost several dollars. I mean that the bulk of it is cheap in appearance.

You may not think this question of what jewelry to wear is important enough to bother with, but I assure you that it is quite worth giving thought to. You are always judged by little things such as the neatness of your shoes, the cleanliness of your gloves, and even by the sort of trinkets you put on. For instance, if you met a woman whose hands were covered with a multitude of cheap and flashy rings, where red and green and yellow stones were mixed up with a lot of gold, and if she wore large ear-rings and a pendant necklace, a

"Now where is that Creature?" asked Mr. Elephant. "I think I was seeing things that were not real," said Tinker as he tapped the Stone and the Creature was seen no more.

"Urumph, Urumph, Urumph," said Tim. "Urumph, Urumph, Urumph," said Mrs. Elephant. "Urumph, Urumph, Urumph," said Tim the little Elephant. "Is that where you live?"

"That is the Creature that lifts you from the ground," said Tinker. "All right," said Tim. "I'll go to see her."

"Shoot at will!" shouted the director. The rattle of blank musketry filled the air.

"It's only this," she said. "I'm sorry it had to come at the last minute."

He laughed shortly. "It was the last minute that made it. I'm not sorry."

Her face twisted passionately, as if she were on the point of angry tears. "I hope I will never see you again. Do you understand that?"

"Quite," he said, dryly. "To George as going to the war?"

"It didn't mean just that," she cried, angrily.

"It's your only chance," he said. "And I can understand how you can wish it shouldn't come back."

"Don't count too heavily on it," he said.

"I'll be there," she said, and he knew that she meant it.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a widow lady 52 years of age and have very bad health. I have two sons. My older son is the only one who is any help to me. The younger is not much help. He throws his money away. I keep house and do the washing and all the work. I have two boarders and they are not much help. They only pay board half the time. I have a notion to break up housekeeping. Please tell me what to do. J. M.

Since you have poor health I do not think you ought to keep on with such hard work. If you are financially able to give up keeping boarders I would advise you to do so. You have not mentioned the ages of your sons and I cannot, therefore, know whether they are old enough to be deprived of their home. Perhaps you and the boys could get smaller quarters where your work would be less strenuous. They should certainly not be any need to fatten portions of the body with these skin foods. You will be more evenly developed in another few years. A friend—there is no need to bruise the body when using a stiff bath brush. It should be very exhilarating to the skin, clearing up this tendency to the blackheads. Follow these bath scrubbing by cooling the bath gradually until the end, when you should dash cold water over your skin to close the pores.

The recurrence of these blackheads after you clear them up appears to be due to enlarged pores. Often one bust is larger than the other which has no more significance than when one foot is larger than the other.

Tomorrow—Health.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am 12 years old and lonely. I have been with a few fellows. When I do go they seem to like me and always want to go again, but if I don't want to go with them it is ages before anyone else asks for a date. Boys always treat me nicely, but I wonder why they rarely ask me to go any place. I am naturally rather shy and I get so lonesome sometimes that I almost wonder if life is worth living after all. LONELY GAYLE.

Very few girls enjoy popularity. I think you ought to be thankful because you seem to like you and take you places occasionally. Probably you want some one to love you and propose marriage. At your age it is only natural that your friends should be young to talk of marriage. My advice is to enjoy boys when they come to see you and when they do not to be satisfied with the companionship of your girl friends.

of useless furniture and ornaments. She might be a perfectly nice woman, but at the same time you would have just that critical feeling about her. Wouldn't you really prefer a really dressed woman who wore more than the pin necessary to fasten her blouse, and perhaps a ring or a necklace? The new fancy neckties give a needed color touch to the costume, but should not be mixed with other jewelry.

Farm Bureau Official Information

FARMERS TO MAKE PROTEST ON TAXES

Farm Bureau Committee to Appear at Tax Commission Hearing.

Farmers will be represented at the hearing for redetermination of the assessment figures of Rock county to be held by the Wisconsin tax commission. The Farm Bureau committee, composed of George Hull, president, C. O. Osgard, Plymouth and Marcus Kellogg, Janesville, conferred Thursday afternoon to collect information and data to be presented to the tax authorities.

The Farm Bureau committee will seek to convince the state agents that taxes are too high on farm property and the values placed on farm property are too low. The committee will also urge the state agents to consider the shrinkage in farm values during the industrial boom and the fact that the values placed on farm property are not in line with the values placed on other property in the county.

The Wisconsin tax commission has

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia all start with a cold. At the first sign of a cold, the moment you get those warning aches, get busy with good old Musterole.

Musterole is a counter-irritant that goes right after congestion (which is what a cold really is) and restores normal circulation.

It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the unpleasant stinging and blistering. During the big "flu" epidemic several years ago Musterole was used in our training camps. The Y. M. C. A. War Board sent thousands of jars to our boys in France. Doctors have been recommending it to their patients for years.

Just rub it on the congested part with your finger tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then comes a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

If there are colds in your house get Musterole on the job at once. It may prevent serious illness. It is a good plan to have Musterole always on the bathroom shelf for the emergency.

BUREAU WILL AID IN SELLING STOCK

Important Part of Service to Farmers in Aiding Stock Sales.

One of the most important projects of the Rock County Farm Bureau this year is to increase livestock sales. Rock county should sell triple the amount of stock that has been sold in the past.

The demand for the stock is apparent. On the other hand the stock is not selling as fast as it should. Success in selling of surplus stock in livestock depends on the supply and demand and knowing where the stock is to be had. There has been a number of good sales lost for the reason the stock buyers wanted.

"We should take every means to further stock sales," declares Hugh C. Hemmingsway, secretary. "I believe that this aid in selling stock is one of the most important duties of the Farm Bureau. We are going to push this work. If the farmer raises good enough stock, either grades or purebreds, Rock county should develop to be the leading stock county in Wisconsin."

"There are lots of orders for grade cattle and a number for blooded animals. Now these orders are not for one or two animals but for carloads of stock. It is no easy task to find a carload of cattle. We must know what the farmers have and the Farm Bureau will help them in selling their stock. The more we can help the farmer sell his produce, the better the Farm Bureau."

"Surplus cattle sold means less production of milk and that is the danger this summer. We have some cattle listed now. We want more and the Bureau hopes to work in full cooperation with the breed associations. The small farmer is of equal importance, and needs more aid than the big breeder in cooperative selling of livestock."

"There is considerable grain and seeds which can be bought and sold through the Farm Bureau. The seeds are grown by reliable farmers and known to be adaptable to our farms here."

"Farmers do not need to go out of the county to get good seeds or the best of stock. It is here and our job is to help the man who wants to buy and find it."

The Farm Bureau will list in its advertising columns, showing what can be located for buyers through the Farm Bureau secretary.

It is hoped to make the office a clearing house for stocks, orders and give a service to farmers in conducting an exchange in all farm products and equipment.

Meditation of a Scrub Sire

They call me a scrub bull; yet I have a pedigree. I was sired by a scrub, dam'd by a scrub, and am treated like a scrub, and I sometimes think that I am owned by a scrub. My tribe outnumbers pure-bred bulls four to one. Just why I should exist is a mystery even to me. Yet I am not responsible for my existence; I am brought into the world without my consent and I shall probably leave it against my will. In the meantime I am getting the most vicious publicity, principally through the farm press. They say I am a renegade and an abomination, and should be exterminated. Dairyman passing my owner's farm look at me with contempt; even the cows show me no respect. My own daughters seem to hold a grudge against me, saying that I am responsible for their low production. I cannot argue the point, for it is true. But what can I do? My owner must think a lot of me personally, or he would not continue to support me, knowing that I can never improve the quality of his herd or be a source of profit to him. These cow testing associations are certainly showing me up, and I can see the handwriting on the wall. My tribe is doomed! Under the keen competition and low prices of good pure-bred bulls there will soon be no place on the farm for me. So, good-bye. I may be gone but not forgotten, for I have retarded the development of the dairy industry for many years.

Danger from Swine Cholera in County Shown by Purcell

Will Rock county have another outbreak of the disastrous swine cholera? Swine authorities while stating that the southern district is now comparatively free from the disease they likewise declare that cholera is always present somewhere in the county.

Dr. J. T. Purcell, state veterinarian, who will speak at the Harmony township meeting Friday night, sounds warning that to avert losses this spring and summer, farmers must be quick to prevent swine cholera, once started is hard to stop and it costs money.

It is claimed that 95 percent of the swine that die from diseases in the United States die from cholera. "Let the farmer immunize his pigs and he will be ahead of the game, even if it does cost something," advised Dr. Purcell. "That is the safe way. Swine bought from the pig pens for once started, cholera cannot be stopped until it has taken its toll. The farmer cannot afford these losses, especially with a high pork price."

If the farmer wants to keep cholera out of his herd, he has three methods, one to quarantine his farm, the second to keep his premises so clean and sanitary that cholera has little chance to spread and develop and the third and best is to vaccinate to immunize by the double treatment.

There are many carriers of the disease from the innocent pigpen that feeds in the pig pen and flies around the neighborhood. Farmers, however, the row animals brought to tamper with, say the state swine authorities, who urge vaccination at once.

Swine farmers had success with a powerful antiseptic spraying the swine, the feed troughs and pen yards in preventing spread of the disease. It is most thought that swine cholera started for the breeders' homes made the fatal mistake of putting off vaccination until too late.

War Finance Board Loans Aid Farmers

The stringency of rural credits has been greatly relieved in many of the United States through the operations of the War Finance Corporation in loaning money to aid in carrying agriculture over the production, marketing, marketing, and distribution of crops or the growing, feeding, breeding and marketing of live stock. Loans are not made on real estate or for permanent improvements, such as silos, barns, fencing, drainage, etc.

Loans are made for a term of 6 months or less to one year. They may be renewed if necessary and advisable, but the loan cannot exceed 2 years in time. All applications must be filed and approved before July 1, 1922.

AMERICAN CONSUL BUSY INDIVIDUAL

Extent of Duties and Responsibilities Told by Director.

[By Associated Press.]

Washington—Details of how the 47 American consuls now in the service of the state department are "sparring information, extending protection, enforcing American laws and exerting American influence" in more than 400 cities of 50 countries are set forth by William J. Cameron, director of the consular service in the first issue of the American Consular Bulletin, a monthly publication by the American Consular association, an unofficial and voluntary organization embracing most of the members of the consular service of the United States.

"There is probably no class of officers of the government whose functions are less correctly understood by the public than the consuls," says Director Carr. "To one man a consul is merely a visa of passports; to another the word consul signifies a glorified traveling salesman charged with the marketing of American goods in foreign lands. Many a mother knows the consul only as a good and kind friend in a far away ward and back to the old home in the United States."

Serve Many Functions.

"It would hardly occur to any of these individuals that their contract had been with an organization of trained officers, an organization employing 2,500 men and women, cost the state about $1,000,000 annually and returning to the treasury of the United States in the year 1921 the sum of $3,800,000, thus showing a net profit to the government for the year of more than $2,800,000. Neither would it occur to them that the members of that organization were serving daily 10 departments and numerous independent establishments of the government in Washington and through them or directly, many thousands of individual citizens throughout the country."

In support of that statement, Director Carr relates how American consuls handled 48,072 cases involving the protection and welfare of nationals of the United States abroad in 1921.

The many cases of protection and relief he adds, ranged from finding lost relatives and shielding well-meaning but indiscreet American travelers from the legal consequences of their rash acts, to rescuing indigent relatives from starvation and death.

Great Letter Writer

That the consul was a great letter writer last year was shown by the figures on correspondence. In the twelve month period ending March 31 last, consuls abroad received 758,224 letters and sent out 871,891. Between times they handled 546,239 consular invoices, visas, passports for 657,968 aliens and 10,117 Americans and checked the arrival and departure of 27,835 American vessels.

In connection with their passport work, Director Carr asserts consuls discovered many frauds, "rangs of crooks manufacturing and selling fraudulent passports were broken up in many places in Europe."

"After many years of stomach suffering I have at last found a medicine for that trouble. But believe me it was a timely find. I couldn't have lasted a great while longer. My stomach would not take gas like a barrel and the colics got to be awful. Medicine didn't help much until I got hold of 'Mayr's Wonderful Remedy,' which did the thing I am telling everyone about. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. St. Patrick's showing last year's champion style, jumped into the second division of the church basketball league Wednesday night at the Y. M. C. A. The results: St. Patrick's 10, Methodist 7; St. Mary's 36, Trinity 1.

The St. Patrick's-Methodist contest was one of the best, if not the best exhibition of basketball of the season. The St. Patrick's was superb, and this combined with their experience gave them victory. It was an open game, and kept the crowd which had become a welcome addition to the contests, on their toes. Davison's work in shooting one basket, and four three throws combined with the basket by R. Leary and Homer Casey, accounted for their scoring. Quin, Dick, brother of the former high school star showed that his basketball family. He made two baskets for the Methodists. The Methodists have developed a strong defensive team through the coaching of Walton Lane.

By FRANK S. CLAIR
Wisconsin's chances of nabbing second place in the Big Ten basketball race are shot to pieces. The Badgers must lose all remaining games and Illinois must lose all to make the event possible. Even then it would be but a tie. Dr. McNeill's short-passing game has been broken this year by well formed defenses.

Superior Central, Nelson Dewey, and Hurley high schools are in a bad fix. The rules of the Wisconsin Association require each high school to play at least six other Badger schools in order to be eligible for sectional tournaments. None of these three has played more than two.

Clear-limbed and clear-eyed, they have rendered themselves to the local people through a display of sportsmanlike that has been pleasant to witness," writes a Fond du Lac scribe of his home town team, continuing: "No coarse work, no cursing or swearing, no fighting with visiting players, the team has gone ahead and played real basketball, and the fans know it." That sounds mighty good at a time when we are hearing so much to the contrary in the world of sport.

Or think bowling is a good exercise because it develops strength in the muscles without enlarging the muscles," says Miss Gladys Wheeler, 22, leader of an league at the University of Wisconsin. "Other sports, particularly tennis and basketball, interest me, too. In the summer I prefer tennis and swimming."

There is an old saying that a good workman can do better work with poor tools than a poor workman with good tools. It applies to Bob McAllister, the Brooklyn top who broke the world's indoor track records for 100, 110, 120, 130 and 150 yards. He wore flapping trunks and heavy soled tennis shoes. The writer knows the track, at the Thirtieth regiment armory, Brooklyn, where the meet was held, and it must be said McAllister was not aided by a floor any too good. Look out, Paddock!

The Gazette's plunk on sports is to boost greatness where the individual gains most in physique, mentality and character. Says President L. D. Coffman, Minnesota university: "The worst thing which we have to contend with today is the effort by certain persons to procure players to purchase football teams. Of late we have become tremendously interested in championships. The question is not how much value the individual, slender derives, but who will win the championship."

BEATS M. U. 21-7; EDGERTON ANNEXES THE THIRD PLACE

THURSDAY'S SCORES

BY FRANK SINCLAIR
 Milton College Gymnasium, Milton—The cops ran true to form. Evansville high school, picked in advance to capture the top annual Milton college high school invitation basketball tournament, walked away with the honors here Thursday night. They smashed through Milton Union for a victory of 21 to 7. Edgerton took third, squeezing Fort Atkinson, 21 to 9.

The score of the title game does not tell the story. Evansville's master five-man defense (two up and three back), the "Cut-Off" city's crushing offense and Union's desperate scrap featuring Coach Egan's best all-around scoring machine so far developed by Southern Wisconsin "prep" schools.

At the end of the first quarter Milton was ahead 6 to 3. Their points made by Chadsey's two field goals and Astlin's free throws. That was due to slight nervousness upon the part of Evansville in passing a rifle shot slowly. But it was almost the end of Milton's counting, for not until the third quarter did Union ring up again, a free throw.

Evansville played a wonderfully smooth game. Each man knew his place, dropping into the defense before Milton started its attack. Union's defense was not as good as that of Evansville, plus bounding the ball, enabled the winners to cool through what seemed a stone wall. Only twice did Evansville make bad shots. With a foul, the ball was turned over to the Evansville team. Roberts, chosen captain of the mythical five, pivoted, squeezed and shot a whiz of a game.

In the play-off for third, Fort Atkinson pushed the Tobacco city hard to within two points of the third place laurels, 11-9. A remarkable one-handed shot by Edgerton's Chadsey, but the closing gun sounded before the ball reached the air. No score was made by either team in the opening, when the Evansville team called the foul of the most. Whitford of Edgerton starred.

In the afternoon, Edgerton and Fort earned the right to compete for third place. Oregon lost to Fort in a thrilling overtime game, the score at the end of regulation time being 15 all.

A crowd of 1,500 saw the final game. The teams banqueted. The lineups and scores:

With only three more weeks remaining upon the schedule, the race in the Industrial-Commercial bowling circuit is getting tighter. With little hope of being able to decide the winner almost until the last ball has been thrown over the drives. The pin busters have been having an exceptionally good season with pretty battles numerous.

The hottest battle on the boards Friday will be between the Sampson Tractors and the Cadillac. The Sampsons are three games behind the right cylinder G. M. boys. Another of equal merit will be between the Eastwick defense and the position against their neighbors, the Varsity Clothing. And still a third is between the Golden Eagle and the Fordsons, also separated by narrow chances.

The Gazette, Woolen Mills, and Postoffice, holding down the top positions in their order, meet the American Express, Carr Grocery, and Janesville Electric. The old spirit of "ditch the leaders" will reign.

Two Local Boys' Teams to Play in Beloit Meet

Two Janesville boys' basketball teams are entered in the junior tournament which opened at Beloit Friday. They are the St. Mary's five and the Janesville Marines. Games are played at the Lincoln school gymnasium.

The Marines are the first Bower city five to get into action. They meet the Lincoln school Saturday at 9:30 a. m. St. Mary's meets the Restless Five Beloit at 10:30 a. m. The Beloit Arrows, Rockton, Beloit Roosevelt and Rockton are also entered.

Semi-finals will be played Saturday afternoon. The finals come off Saturday night. All players are under 16. A silver loving cup will be awarded the winner and banners to the second and third. Each trophy must be won three times. Harold Cunningham will have charge of the Janesville boys.

The lineups for the Janesville teams are:
 Janesville Marines: Beloit Lincoln Miller, Clark, Dustrude, Austin, Fouts, Donegan, Witte, Hallatt, Substitutes: Janesville, and Costello. Lincoln—Kruenger, Keenan and Abelman.

Janesville St. Mary's Restless Five Murphy, Fairchild, Barry, Simonson, Stevens, Dorn, Vogel, Burns, Schuler. Substitutes: St. Mary's Cunningham and Lorentzen. Restless Five—Zero.

Muddle Rises in A. A. U. Basket Meet in Chicago
 Called upon to replay seven minutes after they had defeated the Auburn Park K. of C. 15 to 10, Thursday night, the R. F. Bs. of this city withdrew from the Central A. A. U. basketball tournament at Chicago. They were to have played the Alverno A. C. in the second game.

According to Coach Thomas McDonald, the game itself was square but at half time he discovered a Kay Soo player overweight. He protested but the matter dragged until the middle of the last half, he states, when he made a second protest. The player was taken out, he declares, weighed and found to be three pounds over 150, the class limit. Cup captain of signatures revealed three different handwritings for one man. He then was ousted from the game.

Auburn Upheld
 Auburn entered a protest when Janesville came from behind an 11-3 half time score and won. A committee upheld their claim that a man cannot be withdrawn after the game has started. According to McDonald, Janesville was ordered back on the floor to play seven minutes, starting with a score of 15-3 in favor of Auburn. R. F. Bugs, says McDonald, then called the referee of the meet. The players return Friday.

Gannon featured for Janesville with five baskets. C. Blok got two and Hager and C. Blok one each. The Janesville team also had Manogue in the lineup.

Clark to Play Center for Blues Saturday Night
 Changing of Seaman from center to guard and putting Clark in at the pivot position is Coach Reyner's plan to turn the tide in Janesville high school's basketball fortunes. The Blues have not won a game this semester following a clean-out sweep of victories last term.

Saturday night Milton Union comes here. It will be the last home game of the season for the Bower city lads. Janesville holds a victory over Milton this season.

Constant practice in basket shooting has been the order in workouts for the locals this week. The boys have the rudiments of defense working a little better than in the past. Every effort will be made to keep a solid defense at work this week-end and with improved plunking to roll up a score that will bring home the bacon.

Austin and Dickerson are showing up as the best shots on the home squad. The guards Saturday will probably be Seaman and Dougherty.

Meyers Signs; Card Complete
 Roy Meyers, Janesville 147 pounder, put his signature upon a contract of the Janesville Elks Athletic club Thursday to fight Jack Keating of Rockford. It will be an eight round go in the semi-windup of the Mar. 5 card.

Word comes from the Forest City fight camps that Keating is prepared to give Meyers the same dose as he handed out to Charley Riley here last month. Meyers, who has kept himself in constant training, says the Rockford dopsters are all wrong. If the card next week makes a profit for the local club, there is every probability that another will be put on shortly afterward.

Local promoters hope to make boxing a permanent institution here.

Clark to Play Center for Blues Saturday Night

Changing of Seaman from center to guard and putting Clark in at the pivot position is Coach Reyner's plan to turn the tide in Janesville high school's basketball fortunes. The Blues have not won a game this semester following a clean-out sweep of victories last term.

Saturday night Milton Union comes here. It will be the last home game of the season for the Bower city lads. Janesville holds a victory over Milton this season.

Constant practice in basket shooting has been the order in workouts for the locals this week. The boys have the rudiments of defense working a little better than in the past. Every effort will be made to keep a solid defense at work this week-end and with improved plunking to roll up a score that will bring home the bacon.

Austin and Dickerson are showing up as the best shots on the home squad. The guards Saturday will probably be Seaman and Dougherty.

PLAN TO OBSERVE GRANT'S BIRTHDAY

100th Anniversary Will Be Celebrated by Godey's Lady's Book in Demand at Chicago University

Washington—The one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Ulysses S. Grant will be observed throughout the country on April 27.

President Harding has promised to speak at the unveiling of a tablet at the great union general's birthplace, Point Pleasant, Ohio, and on the same day the Grant Memorial which has been so many years in course of construction at the base of the Capitol in Washington will be dedicated with suitable ceremonies.

The movement for the hundredth birthday anniversary celebration was set in motion at the fifty-fifth national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Indianapolis last September. An executive committee headed by Colonel Thomas S. Hopkins of Washington was appointed by Lewis S. Pilcher, commander-in-chief and a national committee of arrangements was created. It is headed by President Harding as honorary chairman.

From the Vice Chairman.

Among the honorary vice chairman are Vice-President Coolidge, Speaker Gillette, Chief Justice Taft, Secretaries Weeks and Denby, General Pershing, Senators Nelson and Warren, Representatives Osborne and Yates, Governors Davis of Ohio and Miller of New York and the head of women's organizations listed to the Grand Army as well as General Miles commander-in-chief of the Loyal Legion and Sanford MacNider, national commander of the American Legion.

Grant's birthday anniversary comes almost on the 57th anniversary of General Lee's surrender at Appomattox.

tax, which took place April 9, 1865. At the close of the Civil war, Grant's name was more frequently on the lips of the people than that of any other American, unless it was Lincoln. In 1869 he became president and was re-elected to a second term. After retiring from the presidency in 1877 he was for a time less in the public eye, but he still was a favorite. His unfortunate business venture some years later excited the sympathy and concern of his friends. It was known he was reduced almost to poverty. Then followed his illness from the dread disease of which so little is known, even now.

When Grant began the preparation of his memoirs, he was ill. It became known he was hoping that, when published, the two volumes would yield a competence for his family. His sufferings increased as the work went on, and at last it became a race between him and death, while mankind watched and waited in anxiety for the result. Grant conquered, for he lived to complete the work. That accomplished, he welcomed the relief from his sufferings that soon came.

That was nearly 37 years ago. Other wars have intervened, great national and international problems have arisen and commanded the attention of the people, and thus the name and the fame of Ulysses S. Grant have not figures so prominently with the people as they did 40 or 50 years ago.

But during the more than a half century those veterans who served under him and who loved him have never wavered in their devotion to his memory.

Grant's birthday anniversary comes almost on the 57th anniversary of General Lee's surrender at Appomattox.

TRAVELING CUPID IS LATEST WRINKLE IN LAND OF HEINE

Berlin—Traveling matrimonial agents constitute the very latest idea in Germany where keen competition has developed among matrimonial bureaus because of the great surplus of women, partly due to the war. The matrimonial agents go from one town to another seeking "gold fishes," as the Germans call them or, in other words, women with money who are desirous of obtaining true love and a good-looking, though poor, husband.

Both men and women have taken to the work of matrimonial agents, and operate on the trains as they travel, seeking the acquaintance of likely-appearing candidates to whom they explain their propositions when given even less than half a chance.

The matrimonial agents carry a "sample case" in the form of a large album, leather bound with handles, and which is nearly as large as a suitcase.

Those agents work on a commission basis, being paid by the bureau managers who when a match is made, charge a per cent of the woman's wealth, payable immediately after the marriage takes place, the bureau also receiving a certain percentage from the successful "man" candidate, payable in installments, a certain length of time after the wedding date.

One matrimonial bureau advertised recently that the names of 5,000 marriageable women were listed on its books and that there were only 133 men candidates to meet the emergency.

RUSSIAN DEPOSITS DISGUISED
Copenhagen—A Danish financial expert with a knowledge of Russian conditions says between 200,000,000 and 300,000,000 kroner are deposited in Swedish banks in the names of various Russian commissars.

He adds that any money deposited in the name of any Russian government is liable to sequestration by states with monetary claims against Russia and it is therefore necessary to have the money deposited in the names of commissars.

The financier also asserts that still larger sums are deposited in South American banks in the names of commissars.

OLD REGIME RUSS RESENT RELIEF AS AIDING BOLSHIEVIKI

Moscow—Among the old-time Russian bourgeoisie there is a decided hostility to foreign relief work. The general opinion among the anti-bolsheviks of the more intelligent classes is that foreign relief will lengthen the life of the bolshevik regime and they are so bitter against the communists that they express a desire to starve and let all Russia starve rather than have the present Government strengthened.

The old bourgeoisie in Russia, for the most part, are apparently as irreconcilable as the groups of old-time Russians in Paris and other capitals. But among the peasants, the folks in the Volga who are actually getting the food, there is a decidedly different feeling. They appreciate the American generosity and express their thanks in unstinted terms.

McBride Pleads Not Guilty; Lawyer Claims Insanity

lows of Wisconsin. His high prominent cheek bones have an indication of the strain of Indian blood reported to flow in his veins.

Following the consultation with his attorney and their return to the court room, the hearing opened with District Attorney Easton Johnson, of Whitewater, reading the complaint charging Frederick L. McBride, with first degree murder in killing Edward Thielen, on Nov. 20.

Standing up, McBride was asked by Judge Fritz:

"Are you guilty or not guilty?"

"We plead not guilty and plead insanity," Attorney Bechtold said, rising to speak for the defendant.

FRED MCBRIDE. Cur used by courtesy of Elkhorn Independent.

Bechtold, attorney, to preside because of his inability to come, owing to illness, will sit at the trial.

pointed Roscoe Luce, of the Elkhorn law firm of Luce and Wilson to defend him. Attorney Bechtold returned to Portland, Ind., Tuesday night. It is believed he will return to assist Luce, a young attorney, in defending the brother of the man who sent him on his errand.

According to statements of Attorney Bechtold, insanity runs in the McBride family. Several members having been epileptic. Catherine, proof of this and other things, will be attempted by the defense when he goes to the Elkhorn court house, where he is being held in the prison walls at Waupun.

Taft Brothers See McBride. Supporting the claims of the state that he is sane, will be witnesses from East Troy and surrounding vicinity where McBride worked for the past two years as an employee of the Taft Bros. In response to his letter, the Taft brothers came to see McBride in his cell and were spectators at the hearing. According to statements made by them after their visit, he was one of the best and most reliable men ever employed by them. They have large farms and employ scores of men.

A Holiday Scene. The arraignment was the occasion for a holiday in Elkhorn. Crowds of people, as many as 100,000, jammed the corridors of the court house occupied every one of the 300 seats in the room, stood in the aisles and sat on window sills. In every point of observation people were packed. Men, women and children stood in the doorway leading from the court room to a great hall, striving to catch a glimpse of the defendant and to hear a stray word here and there of the legal procedure. Here the crowd did not end. It overflowed into the streets and lined up from the door to the edge of the court house park; several hundred feet away.

Highest at a Trial. Old timers declared that never on any occasion had they seen such a mass of people storm the seat of justice of Walworth county. It was more like a crowd, expected at a world series baseball game than a court trial. Exclaiming their claim to equal rights, women elbowed their way past the men to squeeze into a place of vantage.

Seated inside the rail was the defendant, with the officers, Mr. Johnson, about ten newspaper men, the court reporter, Attorney Bechtold and District Attorney Ray C. Twining of Jefferson county, whose efforts to clear the "Mystery of Miracle Creek" had not been in vain.

McBRIDE PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO THIELEN CRIME

will not misunderstand. At present the interpretation is merely an executive statement and the senate has not yet uttered its understanding of the treaty.

Obligation of Defense. If the Brandegee reservation is adopted by the senate, included in the instrument of ratifications and exchanged with the other powers who signed the treaty and they do not protest that their understanding is different, then the other nations never could claim that the United States was under any obligation to join in any defense of their insular possessions and insular dominions in the region of the Pacific ocean.

Senators who take this view point out that if the treaty without the reservation means what President Harding says it does, there can be no valid objection to letting the treaty say so by means of a clarifying reservation. The preamble of the treaty declares that one of the purposes for which the treaty is made is the "maintenance of their rights in relation to their insular possessions" in the Pacific ocean. Article two says that "if the said rights are threatened by the aggressive action of any other power: the contracting parties shall communicate with one another to arrive at an understanding as to the most efficient measures to be taken, jointly or separately, to meet the exigencies of the particular situation."

Aggressive Action. Now it is the view of many senators that when "aggressive action" occurs the conference of powers does not by any means meet merely to decide whether they shall take any measures. They communicate only in order to arrive at an understanding as to the most efficient means to be taken.

means," the whole thing turns around the rub. The senators who feel deeply about this subject point out that a vetoed obligation in that phrase for it the aggressive action is taken by a naval attack upon an island in the Pacific belonging to the British or Japanese empires is encroached upon, then the "most efficient" is not the only effective measure to meet that exigency would be jointly to send a navy to repel the naval attack.

Position of U. S. While the aggression continues, the United States would be obligated to do something to help those whose rights were threatened. That's the opinion of most senators. Could America agree to talk only while rights were being threatened? Many senators would like America to be free to use her good offices in such controversies without involving naval or military force and they are unwilling to have the treaty leave the impression that the United States is obligated to go much further. They feel the naval measures if she likes and the naval measures if she likes and want America to be free to join in refrain just as the circumstances of the case and the judgment of the American people may dictate. But they do not want foreign governments to have the opportunity to make out a case saying the United States has made a "scrap of paper" out of a sacred treaty. They want the United States to be able to say that at no time did she bind itself to join in any defense.

Present Wording. Notwithstanding the views of those who urge the Brandegee reservation, there are some senators who favor the wording of the present treaty because they want an alliance and because they think America should join in the common defense of the Pacific. They interpret the treaty as meaning exactly that. In view of this difference of opinion among American senators, the advocates of the Brandegee reservation say America should say once and for all now and not in the future what she understands by the treaty.

Movies at a Nickel—Good Old Days

Times do change. Wonder, whatever became of the tall cop and the little short one, in gorgeous uniforms, who were the star screen comedians in the early movies in Janesville. It was the blarney, nickelodeon, then with a photograph horn stuck out in front wheezing out "Bedelia." In the "Shade of the Old Apple Tree" and "In the Good Old Summer Time." Do you remember back in the days when the first movie houses were started? People shook their heads when shoe-string players wanted a hall, put in chairs, hired a good Barker and sandwich advertising man and cast their fortunes with the motion pictures. Good old days. The Thrilling Chase. It cost a nickel to go in and see the comedians stage a weird chase through town, break through buildings and then jump in front of the water. We were held in tense suspense, knowing that some would and some time that people howling over each other in a football scrimmage. Usually, just before the funny thing happened the audience turned restlessly around and when all looked back and a howl at the coop of the film operators. Just in the nick of time. The first scene were usually of ordinary life, showing natural scenes and simple stories. But then movies were clean. The golden voiced singer of the town, would wash his illustrated actors got to be famous or at least notorious. In the old days nobody cared whether it was a $1,000,000 star or a plain $25 a week actor who was in the scene. The movies were not cluttered up with long lists of names of those who dotted the "T" and crossed the "C" in the scenario for patrons didn't care who was in the scene. The movies proved an advance over the chase comedy scene but in the old days they had the good plot ideas that they are still demonstrating. The lot of six stars the director deemed necessary to jam down the public's throat. The days of the nickel movie have passed. The movies have got, intelligent, better look, where they are today. Right, but not half as wonderful as back when the whole family went into the "dimey nokey" and, frothy, painted, nickelodeon, and much more.
